

Mother Path ~ Other Path

A workshop for women without children.

MAY 6TH – 7TH 2011: THE JUNG CENTER OF HOUSTON

When women gather together and share what it means to be a woman today, one significant experience is often unnamed or marginalized – being and living as a woman who will never be a “mother” in the traditional way.

Whether this is a decision your body made, one you forgot to make, one you made freely or one you are struggling with today, being a woman without being a mother evokes its own unique feelings, considerations and experiences – these deserve to be named and shared in the company of like women.

Join other childless or childfree women on this Other Path as we tell our stories, explore our challenges, grieve our losses, ask our questions, discover our fertile gifts and birth our creative desires.

There will be time and space for all women without children – those who wanted them, forgot to have them, or never wanted them as well as those who are grieving, ambivalent or resolved.

May 6 from 6:00 – 8:30 pm

“For two decades I wrestled alone with the ambiguity of becoming a mother or remaining childfree. Only after resolving the questions form myself did I consider that thousands of women were also joining the ranks of childless/childfree women. Whatever the individual circumstances that led us to this juncture on our life’s journey, we have been silent about the trip. I had yearned for a time and place to speak with other women who were not mothers to explore ways we could fulfill ourselves as women on the Other Path.” Suzan Cotellesse

Suzan J. Cotellesse, LPC, LMFT is childfree and creates workshops in which women can break their silence and speak about the circumstances that led to their being childless or childfree.
